I own the 1967 version of the Guidebook for Marines. Some of the same pictures and material from the '67 version is in this version as well, right down to the exact same words. The '67 version included many more weapons in much more detail (81 mm Mortar, 60mm Mortar, the Bayonet, and Flamethrower, the M1, M14, and M16 rifles, for example).

GUIDEBOOK FOR MARINES | #41788921

The "guidebook" as we marines call it is generally part of the basic issue in recruit training... it details what should be known and learned throughout the training process (may also be used as a refresher). Unfortunately I've only seen one copy of the Marine Corps Reserve version during my entire career, which for some of us is a better book.
